DR. STELLE NEW SUPERINTENDENT AT TB. HOSPITAL

Resignation of Dr. A. C. Gates, Who Gave of Valuable Services for 13 Years, Accepted With Regret.

CAME TO RESCUE AT A CRITICAL PERIOD

New Superintendent Has Been Health Officer and Made Study of Tuberculosis.

There was a special meeting of the board of managers of the tuberculosis Hospital held on Friday, March 28, to consider the resignation of Dr. A. C. Gates, the sincerely appreciated superintendent of the hospital. President Fowler occupied the chair and all of the members in turn paid their tribute most feelingly to the long, faithful, efficient and up-to-date service rendered by Dr. Gates, whose interest in the work has never lagged. It was also recalled that Dr. Gates was among the number of people who worked the hardest to help get the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital started.

In the early days of the tuberculosis work, when means were most limited, Dr. Henry Van Hoevenberg was the first superintendent, other physicians of the city assisting in caring for the patients. At the close of 1910, Dr. Van Hoevenberg felt that he could no longer continue his work there without compensation. The Ulster county committee on tuberculosis had no money with which to pay a superintendent a salary and the county has not yet assumed any responsibility in the matter. As a result, a committee composed of Dr. Mary Gage-Day, Dr. Mark O'Meara and Mr. Hoehn, was appointed to see if they could find a physician who would be willing to assume the task of superintendent, giving his service. In this emergency, Dr. Gates came to the rescue and served as superintendent most satisfactorily without compensation all of the year 1911, the other city physicians assisting as in the first year. In 1912, the supervisors assumed the responsibility and Dr. Gates was paid a small salary from that to the present time.

On receipt of Dr. Gates's resignation, Judge Fowler has secured from the state civil service commission a list of physicians recommended by them as eligible for the position of superintendent of county tuberculosis hospitals.

On that list was found the name of Dr. Leonard K. Stelle of Kingston, to whom the position was offered, and who accepted. Dr. Stelle not only knows the community thoroughly, having gained much such knowledge when he was a successful health officer here, but he has since then been making a special study of tuberculosis at Raybrook, a tuberculosis hospital on Long Island and at the Erie County Hospital at Buffalo.

The trade extension committee of the Kingston Merchants' Association has formulated plans for a spring display which it is planned to hold on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 10, 11 and 12. All merchants of the city are invited to cooperate in this movement, which will be in the nature of a spring opening.

Those who participate in the spring display will make a special effort to display the latest spring goods. Windows will be dressed and unveiled at 8 p. m., on Wednesday, April 9, and the actual sales will commence the following day.

A special effort will be made to solicit out of town patronage and to this effect the merchants will advertise the event in the out of town papers in the county and in the surrounding towns. The slogan, "Kingston Stores are Better Stores. Try Them," has been adopted for the spring event. By this event the Kingston merchants hope to better acquaint the people of the county and the surrounding territory with the merchandise which is carried in Kingston and to show them that Kingston is a "better town" to shop in.

How to Fill Out Bonus Application

Three Forms—Competent Living ex-Soldier Will Answer 26 Main Questions—Payment in Lump Sum.

That the soldier, sailor or marine who receives a bonus from the state of New York will have to give a great deal more than his first name is evident from the proofs of the application blanks which Adjutant General Edward J. Westcott showed to newspaper men today. There are three different forms; one for living soldiers, another for incompetents, and a third for deceased. The living soldier will answer twenty-six main questions, and several subordinate ones. For the incompetent soldier, his committee will answer thirty-two questions, while the next of kin or heirs of the deceased soldier will answer thirty-four main questions. All applications must be prepared on a typewriter. A certified copy of the soldier's discharge or release from active duty on a form provided by the bureau, or a photostatic or photographic copy must accompany the application.

First the applicant is required to give his name and the serial number by which he was identified in the army or navy, then his present mail address, his actual residence at the date of his entering into Federal service and where he resided in 1916, 1917 and 1918. He must give the year he last voted before entering the service, and the place where he voted. At the time of his entry into service if he was absent from the state, he must state under oath where he was and if he considered that locality his permanent home. If he were drafted, he must give the number and location of the local board with which he registered, and his address on the date he registered. He must also give his address on the date he enlisted, enrolled, was drafted, inducted, commissioner, appointed, called or reported for active Federal duty. When he was discharged or released from active duty, he is asked to state to which place he received transportation or travel pay. The address of his employer at the date of entry into Federal service is required along with the date of enlistment, induction warrant or commission. If he were a member of the National Guard, he must specify the organization and date of muster. If he were a member of the Regular Army Reserve, Enlisted Reserve Corps, Naval Reserve Force, or other organization and on inactive duty the date of reporting for active duty is asked, as well as the company, regiment, organization, vessel or station to which he was first assigned. The application provides for him telling the date of his discharge from active duty, and the organization from which he was discharged. The application blank inquiries if he ever applied or received a bonus from any other state, and if he did, he must answer what state. One of the pointed questions is, did the soldier while in the military or naval service of the United States refuse on conscientious, political or other grounds to subject himself to military discipline or to render unqualified service. If wounded, he is asked to supply dates of his engagements, and if disabled as a result of wounds, injuries or disease, to state the nature and extent of the disability. Affidavits of truthful testimony and in proof of identity and residence comprise part of the blank, and provision is made for assignment of the claim to any corporation heretofore formed solely for aiding disabled or incapacitated veterans.

For the incompetent soldiers, thorough inquiry as to the appointment of a committee of the person is provided for. In what county clerk's office the papers and the proceedings of the appointment of the committee are filed, is required, and information as to whether the incompetent is now a patient in a hospital or institution.

With reference to deceased soldiers, the blank provides for adequate information concerning the date and place of death, and for the names and addresses of living dependents, also as to whether the deceased was married or divorced, or whether the claimant if a minor has had a guardian appointed, whether the deceased was a legally adopted child, or whether he had any legally adopted children.

The commission gives the following instructions for filling out the blanks:

Applications not filed with the bonus commission before the first day of July, 1925, are void.

Applications must be prepared on a typewriter, except the signature, which should be written in ink.

Under no circumstances, make more than one application.

Any error or failure to make full and complete answer to all questions will delay the payment of your claim.

Read carefully each question and answer in full. If a question cannot be answered, write in the blank space the reason why.

Affidavits shall be acknowledged before a notary public, or other officer authorized by law to administer an oath. If affidavit is taken outside of the state of New York the signature and right of subscribing officer to act must be authenticated by a proper public officer.

Be sure to attach to your application a certified copy of your honorable discharge or letter of release from active duty or a photostatic or photographic copy thereof which must be certified. If you furnish a certified copy of your discharge, use the form provived by the bureau.

Address your application to the New York Soldiers' Bonus Bureau, Albany, N. Y.

Payments will be made by check,

WOMAN RECLUSE SAYS SHE'S ULSTER MAN'S WIFE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

South Hanson, Mass., March 31.—Some of the mystery that has enveloped "Kate Eliot" the strange recluse of Ashinippi Woods, Norwell, was believed cleared up today by the woman's declarations that she is the wife of W. F. Hull of Ulster county, New York.

When last heard from, she asserts, he was an instructor in a widely known New York educational institution. Since coming to the deserted woodcutter's shack twenty years ago, where she was found nearly dead from hunger and cold, the woman has been known as Kate Eliot, which she now says is her maiden name.

Bank books accounting for about $6,000 in deposits credited to "Catherine Hull" had mystified investigators. When shown a photograph of a charming young woman in the cap and gown of Vassar college, the woman, now recovering at the Plymouth county hospital, tore it apart. Police say it is a likeness of Kate Eliot, Vassar student of 45 years ago.

A will found in the shack names "the Rev. Cardinal Canon O'Sullivan of County Cork, Ireland," as the principal beneficiary. The only explanation offered by the woman is that she lived two years in Ireland.

Syracuse Men Are in Trouble

Expulsion and Police Action Recommended for 25 Freshmen Following Attack on Sophomore's Home.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Syracuse, N. Y., March 31.—Twenty-five freshmen students of Syracuse University today face arrest and expulsion from college as a result of their attack upon the home of J. E. Shaw, 611 Fellows avenue, last night, in an attempt to kidnap William Shaw, a sophomore.

The students smashed a cellar window, and cut wires to prevent call for help and were busy trying to storm the upper floors of the house when the elder Shaw, convalescing from an attack of typhoid fever, appeared at the head of the stairs and fired a gun into the mob. None of the students were hit, but they fled from the house.

Shaw's condition was aggravated today by the attack and Vice Chancellor William Graham, of the university, said that every student identified with the attack would be expelled from school. He also recommended police action against them.

KINGSTON POINT PAVILION BURNED SUNDAY EVENING

Structure Owned by U. & D. R. R. Destroyed by What Fire Chief Thinks Was Incendiary Blaze.

SWARM OF AUTOMOBILES HAMPER FIRE APPARATUS

Prominent Waterfront Landmark Will Not Be Rebuilt—Insurance Covers Loss.

Fire, which according to Fire Chief Chipp was probably of incendiary origin, totally destroyed the Kingston Point pavilion at an early hour Sunday evening. The pavilion was open on all sides, several hundred feet long, two stories in height and built of Georgia pine. It was owned by the Ulster & Delaware Railroad and will not be rebuilt.

When the blaze was first discovered about 8:30 o'clock Sunday evening the structure was a roaring mass of flames. An alarm was turned in from Box 15 to which the fire department responded. The alarm was also answered by what appeared to be a majority of the automobilists of Kingston, whose machines jammed the road leading to Kingston Point.

Fortunately the fire apparatus got through to the fire before the road became jammed, and the fire department seeing that it was impossible to save the pavilion turned their attention to saving the passenger station and waiting shed of the Hudson River Day Line, which is located about five hundred feet south of the pavilion on the water front.

The pavilion was built over twenty-five years ago when the park became famous as a summer resort, and was used for picnic and recreation purposes. Up until the past year or so the building and grounds along the water front had been used by the Kingston Consolidated Railroad Company, but when the lease expired the Ulster & Delaware Railroad did not renew it with the trolley company but maintained the pavilion and pier. At the north end of the pavilion were located the comfort stations, which were also destroyed by the flames.

At the offices of the Ulster & Delaware railroad this morning it was stated that the loss was covered by insurance.

The blaze could be seen for miles along the river valley and from all parts of the city, as the burning structure cast a fiery glare skyward.

Those who did not own automobiles hurried to the scene on foot and soon the park grounds were jammed with pedestrians and automobiles. So thickly cluttered were the parked cars that the fire apparatus was unable to leave the park until the parked cars had started homeward.

The fire department used the big pumper with great success, drawing two streams of water from the Hudson river and hurling them on the flames. It was about 10:30 when the fire was finally extinguished. Through the efforts of the firemen the Hudson River Day Line property was not damaged.

At the time the fire was discovered there was a coal barge moored at the pier and the ferry Transport hauled off its course and drew into Kingston Point and towed the barge to safety.

The big pavilion added a gay note of color to Kingston Point Park and could be seen for miles both up and down the river. At night a huge electric sign, "Kingston Point Park," was lighted and added to the attractiveness of the view from the river.

During the winter months the pavilion, as well as the other buildings at the park, was closed, and was only kept open during the summer season. Just how the fire started will probably remain a mystery, as when the fire department reached the scene the entire structure was on fire.

Poughkeepsie Loses Debate

To Local High School Team For Fourth Consecutive Time Judges Are Unanimous.

Kingston High School's debating team defeated the Poughkeepsie High School debating team Friday evening, at the Auditorium of the Poughkeepsie High School. This victory makes the local debaters winners over Poughkeepsie for four consecutive years.

Both teams did good work in the use of their arguments, but Kingston had the edge on all points, their delivery being noticeably superior to that of their opponents.

The Rev. Dr. J. Addison Jones was chairman of the debate. After reading the rules which governed the debate and the topics: Resolved, that the Bok prize peace plan be adopted as part of the foreign policy of the United States. Dr. Jones introduced the speakers of each team.

Kingston upheld the affirmative and were represented by the following team: Theodore H. Thielpape, leader, Jeffries Pennington, Mayer Kaplowtz, Milton Katz, alternate. The Poughkeepsie team follows: Arthur Levinson, leader, Lincoln Parks, Herman Ross.

Theodore Thielpape led the attack of the locals with sound arguments, good subject matter, and excellent delivery.

He was followed by Arthur Levinson of the negative, who was their best man and their main stay. He admitted the poor conditions existing in Europe, but contended that the Bok plan was entirely incapable of helping those conditions. Levinson gave the speech in good style and was the best speaker in the debate.

Jeffries Pennington was the second speaker for the locals. He upheld the World Court idea, since it is incorporated in the Bok plan. He had a very convincing delivery and good subject matter which produced a favorable influence on the judges.

Lincoln Parks, the second of Poughkeepsie's speakers, tried to convince the audience and the judges that public opinion was useless in settling international disputes. His delivery was lacking in style and was not as good as any of Kingston's.

Mayer Kaplovitz was the third speaker for the locals. He advanced some good arguments and delivered them in fine style.

He was followed by H. Ross, the last of Poughkeepsie's speakers. He argued that the Bok plan was not wanted by the majority of the people of the U. S. His delivery was also lacking in style.

The rebuttals of Poughkeepsie were not very strong. Levinson again showing great ability but to no avail.

All of the local debaters broke up some of Poughkeepsie's choice arguments.

When the judges decisions were rendered, Kingston was proclaimed the victor, 3 to 0. This is the first time the locals have defeated Poughkeepsie so decisively.

Miss Hull, Mr. Clum, Mrs. Witter and Miss Noone coached the team.

BRILLIANT CROCUS DISPLAY AT CITY HOSPITAL

The lawn and terraces in front of the Kingston City Hospital present a brilliant and beautiful appearance on account of hundreds of yellow and blue crocuses which are now in full bloom there. Later the white and striped crocuses will bloom, so there will be a continuous display of the delicate flowers for some time. Late last fall three thousand crocus plants were placed in the lawn and terraces of the hospital, and this is their first appearance. They were the gift of Mrs. John D. Schoonmaker.

SUMMER FURS AGAIN, DIFFERENT, OF COURSE

(By Eleanor Gunn)

In the days when the masculine world laughed at summer furs women were impervious to their jeers. Now furs for summer wear incite no mirth for every well turned out woman takes heed of the chill days and nights bound to come later on in the summer. Sudden drops in temperature make for variety in apparel, and no woman can afford to be without light weight and bright colored warm clothes for cold days. Dark colors are so out of harmony with a spring or summer setting that one should be provided with bright woolen or white ones and with furs which have a sportive air about them.

This year it is leopard and wild cat instead of badger and natural lynx. Top coats that are not bound with or collared with some member of the catfamily, civet being also used, are apt to have rabbit ermine or squirrel instead of caracul. Summer hats have fur bindings and bandings and milliners have evolved a multitude of ways for utilizing ermine tails.

As for fur trimmed evening dresses they are a distinct success even in tropical climes and fur bordered little scarfs are one of the many varieties of scarfs demanding recognition. Other types have crewel embroidery on crepe. In farming circles it is supposed to foretell a cold winter when animals grow unusually thick coats. Perhaps in social circles one might test out the theory and look for a cold summer since social animals are so concerned with their furs.

UNIVERSAL COMPANY'S BUSINESS INCREASES.

Spring shipments continue to be brisk at the plant of the Universal Road Machinery Company in this city. The local firm has been busy throughout the winter months, having sold and delivered 18 coal crushing outfits in the New England States alone.

Recent sales include a complete plant for James L. Kehoe of Newburgh, consisting of a battery of crushers, size 12 by 24 and 10 by 18 with a 45 foot elevator 20 feet by 36 inches, roller type screen, 75 feet belt conveyor and 250 ton bin with 50 H. P. and 25 H. P. motors. Three other 12 by 24 crushers which are the next largest unit manufactured by the local firm are in course of erection in the shops, two being for the state highway department of Virginia and one for the county of Sheboygan, Wisconsin, and another 12 by 24 plant has been shipped to the state of North Carolina. The state highway department of New York has awarded the contract to the Universal Company for 91 Heil steel truck bodies of 3½ yard size to be used on the department trucks in the various divisions.

The Universal has also designed and delivered a sand and gravel washing plant, consisting of a 48 inch by 18 feet roller, type screen, a special washing equipment and a 200 feet belt conveyor to parties at Silver Springs, N. Y. Two 14 feet air separators were also shipped during the past week to the Alpha Portland Cement Company of Jamesville, N. Y.

Even the Night Dress Refuses to Stay Home

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

The line of demarcation between day and night clothes is growing very faint. Reports on the latest French lingerie fairly bristle with memos concerning boyish necklines, tubular silhouettes and circular flares.

It is an actual fact that a beautiful flesh voile French robe de nuit was worn at a Cocoanut Grove tea dance at Palm Beach this winter, with only a limited number cognizant of its original sphere in life. Another instance almost on a par was reported by a smart shopkeeper was sold a particularly lovely accordion pleated chiffon negligee to a very smart woman, who admitted frankly to wanting the half dozen ordered in different colors for dance frocks.

The lace jabot is another detail which designers of intimate apparel have appropriated. A recent import was a circular lace cape collar and a jabot cascaded down the gown at the left hip. Such models have obviously a limited appeal, but they are important in certain phases of society.

The tailored impetus is carried much further than one's spring frocks and suits. It stimulates an interest in tailored underthings. The use of buttons for nightgowns has heretofore been regarded as a sort of relic of dark Victorian ages, but times have changed, and here we are playing "button, button, who has the button," again! Even our nighties have ornamental bands of tiny pearl buttons here and there, the object being purely decorative.

RUNAWAY STUDEBAKER CAUGHT BY MAXWELL.

Saturday while Mrs. Elizabeth W. Shaw of 165 Fair street was in the store of George W. Booth at 177 Green street, her Studebaker coupe roadster which she had parked almost opposite, started off "on its own hook" down grade and ran diagonally across the road and into a Maxwell sedan owned by Marie Meier and another, that was parked in front of 185 Green street. The bumper of the Studebaker was caught under the front mudguard of the Maxwell and to extricate the Studebaker it was necessary to take the air out of the tire of one of the front wheels of the Maxwell. There was no damage.

At a St. Patrick's eve concert given by the Irish Musical Society at the College of the City of New York, on Sunday evening, March 16, Mr. Allen was the last of quite a number of distinguished artists. Though last on the program, his singing was one of the hits of the evening.

Tickets for this concert are already selling well and can now be had from any of the Y. W. C. A. girls, from some of the directors and at the Y. W. C. A. headquarters on Henry street.

New York Specialist

COMES TO KINGSTON

Every Wednesday and Will Examine All Cases Free at 163 Clinton Ave. from 9 a. m. to 12 and 1 to 5 and 7 to 8 p. m.

Dr. Swinburne, Specialist Gives Wonderful Relief To Many Patients After Failure of Local Doctors.

Mrs. Earl Howland of Andover, N. Y., writes as follows: Dr. Swinburne has saved me from the grave and I cannot praise him too highly. I was a total wreck from stomach trouble for seven years. Had tried a number of doctors but they could not help me. Could eat very little, and would have sinking spells and nearly die. After taking three three months' treatment of Dr. Swinburne I can say I am cured and feel like a new woman.

TO RESTORE A HEALTHY STOMACH WILL HELP MANY OTHER DISEASES.

In nine-tenths of the ailments there is some weakness of the stomach and poor assimilation of foods that has caused the more serious disturbance. If you have already developed other disease conditions such as headache, recurring vomiting spells, gall stones, jaundice or the more distressing disorders of malnutrition, neuritis, neurasthenia, rheumatism or heart weakness, you should at once begin a course of treatment to build up digestive and assimilative functions and the results from such treatment is often astonishing.

Rheumatism Relieved by Treating the Stomach.

Mr. Henry Cole, a fireman, was so badly crippled from rheumatism that he had to give up work, and could only get around with the aid of crutches. He had treated with a number of doctors without obtaining any relief, until he became much discouraged and thought there was no hope for him.

His attention was called to a similar case where Dr. Swinburne had produced wonderful results in relieving rheumatic trouble by giving treatment to cure the stomach of the terrible acidity, and stop the accumulation of acid in the blood, and Mr. Cole decided to make one more effort to obtain relief. To his great astonishment and joy, he found after one month's treatment he had no further use for the crutches, and after three months he was entirely relieved and was enjoying perfect health.

If you are suffering from any chronic or obscure disease, you should call to see the doctor, for there will be no charge unless you want treatment.

Doctor's next visit to 163 Clinton Ave., Kingston, on Wednesday, April 2nd, from 9 a. m. to 12 m.; 1 p. m. to 5 p. m.; 6:30 to 8 p. m.

Presidential Primary Tuesday

Important For Enrolled Republicans to Vote for Delegates. Alternates and Committeemen—Contests in Two Districts.

The presidential primary election in New York state will be held tomorrow, and in every election district in Ulster county the polls will be open from noon until nine o'clock at night.

Because this will be a presidential primary, a large vote is anticipated in most districts, because the voters select their delegates and alternates to the national conventions which will nominate candidates for president and vice president, and also will elect delegates and alternates to the state conventions which select the delegates-at-large and alternates-at-large to the national conventions.

Members of the state committee of each political party will also be elected. Enrolled Republicans will elect members of the Republican county committee.

No vote will be taken for members of the Democratic county committee, however, because the last Democratic state convention adopted a rule that committeemen elected in the fall primary of 1923 should hold over.

In Ulster county, the only contests indicated by nominating petitions filed with the board of elections are in the first and second districts of the town of Marlborough, in both of which there are contests for members of the Republican county committee.

Enrolled Republicans in every election district of Ulster county should make it their business to vote in tomorrow's presidential election.

Play on April 9 At High School

On Wednesday evening, April 9, the Dramatic Club of Kingston High School will present "Fanny and the Servant Problem" by Jerome K. Jerome. The Dramatic Club is a comparatively new organization. It was formed last year, but did no definite work, owing to the departure of Miss Carter. This year, the club, under the able leadership of Henry Millonig, decided to give a play and selected this one by the famous author, Jerome K. Jerome. The success of the play is assured, for it is being coached by Miss M. Tarrant, who prepared the faculty for their play. Tickets may be obtained from any member of the Dramatic Club

The $250,000 was left to Hoagland "as a token of my appreciation for his friendship at a time when most needed."

Give Players Privileges

According to the interpretation of a rule recently adopted by the Football Association Council of England, a player can talk back as sarcastically and vigorously as he likes to a referee in inquiring about a decision, but must restrain himself as soon as the referee gives his answer. The addition to law 13, as adopted, reads: "A player may inquire from a referee as to his decision, but is not entitled by word or action to show dissent from any such decision. A referee is required to treat a breach of this instruction as ungentlemanly conduct."

New Shawl Is Shown in Delicate Shades

Something superlatively beautiful was required to dim the gorgeousness of the Spanish shawl which has had such a conspicuous vogue for two seasons and more. Among the spring styles in novelties is a shawl of fine cashmere with a printed border in floral design. Its origin is not certainly known, but it comes with the authority of Paris, and is a most feminine and lovely thing.

The new shawl is square with a short fringe of the cashmere itself, and is shown in several delicate shades of yellow, blue, beige and green, though the most attractive is that ith an ivory white field and a border of garden flowers in natural colors.

One in which are little roses, pansies, forget-me-nots and touches of green and black is quaintly charming. Another shawl of corn yellow has poppies and corn flowers in the border pattern, and on still another are jonquils and small lilies around a field of pale green.

These shawls have made an immediate success and are in great demand among women who will use them over their light gowns. They will surely be equally popular for summer country wear.

Colors and Designs in Wearables for Spring

A recent fashion show held by foremost American style creators emphasized certain of the prevailing fashion tendencies, established silhouette and lines and pointed to the growing popularity of colors whose vogue is expected to continue throughout the spring and early summer.

As was to be expected, much attention was given to suits of boyish lines and in these there was a noticeable tendency to choose hairline striped materials and covert mixtures.

The costume suit was not lacking. A coat of three-quarter length was worn over a skirt of the same material, topped by a tunic blouse of silk in a shade that contrasted with the coat and skirt.

A marked preference was revealed for brown in all its color variations. The vogue of brown extends to millinery and to footwear.

Necklaces, Earrings and Other Novelties

Some quite barbarous-looking trinkets are offered among the unusual in necklaces and ornaments. Most amusing are collarets of little ..nells, and chains of sharks' teeth, and painted beans and carved wooden beads.

Ivory trophies of the hunt mounted in gold, once valued as curios only, are on view, but have not yet been demonstrated as a fashion among the Occidentals.

Handsome "pebble" necklaces are made of large glass beads, oblong, and slightly uneven in shape, like natural pebbles. The surface is smooth and satiny, the beads are tinted on the inside, blue, rose, violet, and are strung on a thread of contrasting color. These necklaces are shown in the short strands just circling the throat and in longer chains.

Odd Styles in Combs; Large and Conspicuous

Combs are the most extreme feature of fashion, and their vogue has evolved a number of odd styles. Some of these are quite as large and as conspicuous as the combs worn by the women in old Spanish pictures. They are of the finest tortoise shell and gold, of carved ivory and of gold, jewel-studded; as the imitation novelties are almost attractive in coral, jade, lapis, amber—all, to be sure, in a composition that quite faithfully reproduces the genuine article.

The newest fantasy is a high comb from which falls a fringe—of jet, or steel or whatever—that waves and sparkles with every slightest motion of a woman's head.

The Women's Missionary Society will meet at the home of Mrs. Arthur H. Russell, No. 83 Brewster street, Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The program will consist of a paper, "Women's Colleges in Japan," by Miss Edith Holmes; a Japanese girl's "Valedictory Adress," a reading by Mrs. C. J. Heiselman; and "Thumb Nail Sketches of Japanese Women," presented by Mrs. Harold Darling.

All the women of the congregation are invited.

Thursday evening, Mrs. C. G. Ellis's class, which has been studying the book "The Debt Eternal," will present some of the phases of the modern approach to child life. The forty or more ladies who have been attending this class the past winter are expected to be present.

The annual meeting of the congregation for the election of officers will be held in the chapel Thursday evening, April 10.

Next Sunday evening the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Charles G. Ellis, will give the first of two picture sermons on "The Path of the Nazarene." The beautifully colored slides are from original photographs of the wonderful series of clay models by D. Mantroianni of Paris. These models have a life like quality because of the modeling which could not be secured in any other way, and perhaps the most attractive feature of this set is the fact that as one artist's ideas are shown throughout the entire series it is possible for one to follow the characters in the pictures and become really acquainted with them.

PERSHING'S WAR BOOK.

Months ago General Pershing left his address with the American embassy in Paris and disappeared "somewhere in France" to write a book on the part the American army played in the World War, free from interruption and in needed quiet. Now it is announced that his labors are ended, and no doubt the book will soon be in the hands of the reading public. Though it is scarcely to be expected that General Pershing's pen is the pen of a Gibbon, its product will be read with wide interest and doubtless provoke much discussion. For Pershing knows what was done and why more fully than any one else. After selecting him President Wilson left the direction of the campaign absolutely in his hands. The theatre of war was too far away for interference from Washington, and, in addition to that, civil commanders-in-chief have learned much since the days when Lincoln and his war secretary undertook to order by telegraph the advance or retreat of Union generals, too often with unfortunate results.

General Pershing may be expected to answer his critics, to discuss his advocacy of unity of command and his insistence upon the employment of the American army on its own front, but his book is doubtless for the most part a story of deeds, and it will be the more interesting for that reason. His account will be instructive, but above all dramatic narration will naturally be looked for. It is a remarkable fact that neither Foch nor Haig has written a book about the war and that Pershing is the first of the Allied commanders to undertake the task.

PROMISE SANS PERFORMANCE.

The worst misfortune that can befall radicals is to be successful in an election—that is, to be successful to such an extent as to gain the power and assume the responsibility of conducting government business.

This misfortune has recently befallen the radicals in Great Britain. Ever since the close of the war they have been criticizing the administration in power because there was large unemployment and no practical remedies which assured relief. As a result of their campaign of criticism they won out in the election last December. Under the British system the victors assumed immediate control of government policies and government administration. Naturally the radicals of the country expected that their leaders who had so vigorously condemned the conservatives and had professed to know how the difficulties of the empire could be solved, would immediately suggest and put into effect some reforms that would bring relief.

This has not been done. One of the first embarrassments the new administration met was a strike, and the new administration had no practical means of settling the dispute or preventing the strike. Unemployment has been as prevalent as before and the only step that has been taken which looks toward the employment of a larger number of persons is the suggestion for the laying down of keels for five new war cruisers and two destroyers for use of the British navy. In other words, the political party which has so zealously preached the doctrine of pacifism turns to military preparedness as a remedy for idleness.

After making its campaign largely in condemnation of the conservative policy of refusing recognition to Russia, the new radical administration pretends to fulfill its promises by extending a conditional recognition—a recognition based upon the negotiation of treaties so exacting as to leave little prospect of their consummation. In reality the present government of Great Britain offers little more in the way of concessions to the Bolshevik government than the previous conservative government was willing to concede.

What has happened in Great Britain would happen in the United States if the radicals were to win control of the American government. They are profuse in their criticisms of the present regime. They are equally profuse in promises of reforms they would accomplish. But if they were given the power they would find their theories impractical and their talents for administration exceedingly small.

THE HABIT OF SLEEPLESSNESS.

In a former article I stated that the man who worked with his hands was usually a better sleeper than the man that worked with his head. The idea was not only that he tired himself physically, but that he established a "habit of sleep," which the other man could not do, owing to his business and social engagements, and the carrying of his business home with him.

I believe that most of us get all the sleep we need.

If we're in good health, have passed our early youth, six or seven hours is really all that is necessary.

However, there is no question but that many people do not get sufficient sleep and are always tired.

Now just as the habit of sleep is a great asset, so is the habit of sleeplessness a great liability.

And these non sleepers will tell you that if they go to bed at midnight, they are awake at 3 in the morning, and get no further sleep until the next night. Or if they go to bed at 10 o'clock they are awake at 1 or 2.

These folks are usually "busy" people and accordingly dislike the idea of wasting so much time lying awake hour after hour.

What is the result?

There have been cases where they actualy worked on a correspondence course of study after they awakened, thinking that the time might better be used than wasted.

Now this is a mistake, because this makes the very habit of sleeplessness an established fact.

Physicians treating these cases say that as it is a bad habit it should be broken.

Accordingly if the patient has a habit of going to bed at 11 and awakening at 2 o'clock, they send him to bed one night at 10, and the next night at 12. There is thus no regularity established. Further, they advise that if you have established a system of doing special reading, or special study in these early morning wakeful hours, that it must be immediately discontinued. That it is better to lie awake in a relaxed state of mind and body than to use up your energy by reading or study.

However, there can be no question but that anything that takes the blood away from the head induces sound sleep more readily than any other method.

And so the idea of warm milk or soup is a frequent method with sick people. For well people nothing quite takes the place of light exercise before retiring. Raising on the toes, sitting on the heels, and a few bending or twisting movements taken to the point of "slight" fatigue, will be your safest and sanest method.

Babies Come First

Baby must have his sleep, even though the safety of the city be endangered. Evidently so thought the wives of the volunteer firemen of Lorain, O., who have been charged with plugging the electric bells placed in their homes to call the husbands to fires, because the bells disturbed the slumber of the little ones.

Rug Weaving in Turkey

In parts of Turkey and Persia rugmaking is still carried on in a very primitive way with a loom made by driving two poles into the ground parallel to each other, the distance between the two determining the width of the rug. Each family has its own design, and the weaving is done by many hands.

"Keeping At It" Brought Success

In Twelve Years Former Kingstonian Launched Successful Business, Organized County Society and Established Home County Magazine.

The success which has followed the founding of The Home County Magazine by Joseph Drake has recalled to mind the fact that Mr. Drake removed from Kingston to New York city twelve years ago today, since which time several activities have been accompanied by marked success, of which The Home County Magazine is not the least.

Prior to his removing to New York, Mr. Drake for twenty-four years had been employed on the Kingston Leader, first as "devil," then as typesetter, linotype operator and reporter. He had been known as one of the most rapid linotype operators along the Hudson river, and after going to New York for a time was engaged in that work four years on the New York World, the old Press, the Globe, magazine offices such as the Federal and Munsey's, and later in Columbia University. Then he started in business for himself, and during eight years has built up a successful engraving and printing business.

In 1916, with thirteen other Ulster county sons, he helped organize the Ulster County Society in the city of New York, and he, Mr. Drake, was elected secretary, a position which he has held ever since the first meeting. The society, largely through his personal efforts, has grown steadily each year until now it numbers nearly five hundred members and is one of the strongest county societies in New York. The annual banquets have become a feature of which the society itself and Ulster county generally feel proud.

The Home County Magazine was established in response to a demand for a magazine devoted to the men from Hudson river counties now living in New York city and its environs, and to the home counties from whence they came, and in nearing the second year of its existence has shown how great appreciation it has in the minds and hearts of former residents of the counties and of "the folks back home." At present the magazine limits its activities to the men of Orange, Ulster, Greene, Albany, Rensselaer, Columbia and Dutchess counties. Its subscribers reside in almost every state in the United States, who are of families from the counties mentioned.

In addition to other activities, Mr. Drake finds time to be of service to "the folks back home" both in New York city and in Ulster county, and he enjoys helping folks along just as much as he does the details of his regular activities.

TODAY WE CELEBRATE

THE RISE OF THREE POWERS.

A treaty of peace which was destined to have a profound effect upon the future history of the world was that signed at Utrecht, in Holland, in 1713. It was just 211 years ago today that the congress of nations assembled in the Dutch city reached an agreement and formulated this important document, although it was not signed until two weeks later on. Three of the great modern powers may be said to have had their beginning at Utrecht, in the treaty which brought to an end the war of the Spanish Succession. In that conflict France was opposed by an alliance of England, Prussia, Holland, Austria, Savoy and Portugal. England received by this treaty, both from France and Spain, trading privileges of immense value, and these privileges really started her on the road to empire. The tremendous commercial and colonial expansion of Britain were the outgrowth of that treaty. She also received from France all her North American possessions in Nova Scotia and Newfoundland, and the Hudson Bay region.

From Spain she received Gibraltar and Minorca. The possession of Gibraltar of course gave England the practical control of the Mediterranean. Prussia also was started on the same empire road by this treaty, the royal pretensions of the Hohenzollern's as kings of Prussia found recognition in the treaty of Utrecht.

At Utrecht the Duke of Savoy was made King of Sicily and thus was initiated the chain of events that was to lead to a United Italy, with the House of Savoy in possession of the throne.

My Beauty

Came from clay—and clay has kept it

By Edna Wallace Hopper

Today you hear much about facial clays. I learned about them 20 years ago in France. Then they were crude and muddy, like most clays now. But they multiplied my beauty. And now that same clay, vastly perfected, keeps me a beauty at my grand old age.

Some of you have been amazed at what clay does for women. Even those old-type clays. No other aid to beauty ever did one-tenth so much.

But there is now a new-type clay, white, refined and dainty. French scientists, by 20 years of study, have multiplied its powers. Mark what that clay did for me. After 40 years in the limelight, I look like a girl of 19.

Now I am enabling all to get it, and I urge you to find it out.

The supreme help

Clay does more for women's beauty than all other aids combined. It purges the skin of all that clogs it—the causes of sallowness, blackheads and blemishes.

It brings the blood to the skin to nourish and revive it. The result is that rosy afterglow which so amazes and delights. Many women, with one application, seme to drop ten years.

It firms the skin, combats all lines and wrinkles, reduces enlarged pores. My baby complexion, at the age of 62, shows what constant use will do.

No girl or woman who cares a whit for beauty can afford to omit clay. The users of clay stand out in every crowd.

A better clay

But there's a better clay that others offer now. It is a clay which France perfected for me. I call it my White Youth Clay.

If you have used another clay, this new clay will amaze you. If you have never used a clay, it will be a revelation.

Now this new clay is at your call. Out of gratitude for what it did for me, I am offering it to all.

Edna Wallace Hopper's White Youth Clay is supplied by all druggists and toilet counters. Price, 50c and $1 per tube. Also my Youth Cream, which should follow the clay. Also my Facial Youth—my famous liquid cleanser. Also my Hair Youth, which brought my luxuriant hair. My Beauty Book comes with each.

Let me aid you to the beauty I got and the youth I've kept. The first step is Youth Clay. Go learn what it means to you. Edna Wallace Hopper, 536 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago.

Fewer "Hired Men" on Farms

In Face of Heavy Costs Farmers Have Found Way to Produce Equal Amount of Crops With Less Hired Labor—1924 Outlook, by U. S. Department.

The farmers of this country are trying to reduce expenses and they are using less than the usual amount of hired labor, but according to present indications they will raise about as many acres of crops as they did last year. The expected increases in the acreage devoted to corn oats, barley and hay seem likely to about offset the expected decrease in the acreage of wheat and rye. These figures are based on reports from some 43,000 farmers which were received about March 1st by the various state and federal crop reporting agencies and summarized for the whole country by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The report, which can now be secured on request, contains much material that will assist New York State farmers in making their plans for this season.

Farmers of New York state are particularly interested in the outlook for potatoes. For the last two years the yield per acre in the United States has been materially above the usual average, and as a result, the price has discouraged growers in some states which are far from the chief consuming markets. Judging from the plans on March 1st of those farmers who reported, the acreage planted to potatoes in the states of Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota and North Dakota will be reduced 129,000 acres or about 11 per cent below the acreage last year and 26 per cent below the very large acreage of two years ago. This great reduction is only partially offset by expected increases of 19,000 acres (9 per cent) in New England, 10,000 acres (3 per cent) in New York, and 12,000 acres (5 per cent) in Pennsylvania. If only this acreage is planted and only an average yield is secured there would be less than the usual quantity of late potatoes available to meet market demands in this part of the country.

There is, however, little probability that the acreage of potatoes in these northern states will be reduced as much as these preliminary figures indicate for the mere publication of this report will certainly cause many farmers to change their plans.

In summarizing the potato outlook in the country as a whole, the Department's report states:

"The acreage in the United States in 1923 was 3,800,000 or 300,000 below the trend of acreage, and also below the trend of per capita acreage. Per capita production has averaged 3.70 bushels. Allowing for years when the entire crop was not utilized in regular manner, about 3.50 bushels per capita would seem to be the quantity needed to maintain a stable market. For a population of 112 millions in 1924, a crop of 392 million bushels will give this quantity per capita. With the average yield of 97.2 bushels per acre, an acreage of 4,033,000 is needed. This is 3 per cent greater than in 1923. This, of course, is a generalization and takes no account of regional advantages or handicaps. The intentions report shows a decrease of 2 per cent if present intentions are carried out.

"Commercial acreage in the South Atlantic States, has been reported to be 186,000 acres, or 11 per cent higher than in 1923. Early varieties in the northern sections for market may, therefore, find increased competition.

"The supplies available on March 1 for shipment do not appear to be excessive in any district and are apparently low in the states bordering the Great Lakes."

Virginia, Maryland and New Jersey, New York's most direct competitors in the early market, report little change from last year when taken as a group, but May and June marketings of last year's crop now on hand may find increased competition with the large acreage of new potatoes in the states further south.

Farewell.

You can keep every kiss I gave you,
You can keep every golden caress,
You can keep all the tricks I taught you,
And the stories you made me confess:
You can keep whatsoe'er you care to,

But—please—give me back what I'm missing,
The cold cash I wasted on you.

Pittsburgh's Flood Recedes

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Pittsburgh, March 31.—With flood waters of the Allegheny, Monongahela and Ohio rivers receding at the rate of five inches an hour, the Pittsburgh industrial section today counted a loss of approximately $1,500,000 from the worst flood since 1907.

No loss of life was reported in this district since Saturday, when two parents were swept away in an effort to rescue their children. The children were later rescued.

The weather bureau reported a 25 foot stage this morning. The crest of the flood was reached Sunday afternoon when a 29.2 stage was reported.

Hundreds of families were driven from their homes, and several narrow escapes from death were reported. Street cars were re-routed. Railroad transportation was demoralized.

The mills along the river banks suffered damage estimated at hundreds of thousands. Three thousand men were thrown out of work in McKeesport mills and similar layoffs were made at other river points.

Weather bureau reports from Wheeling, West Virginia, stated that a 41 foot flood stage was expected on the Ohio river there by noon today.

THE GOVERNOR'S APPOINTEE

Ten years ago, when woman suffrage was a long way off in Eastern states, women holding governor's appointments were uncommon. The title of official court reporter of the Eighth judicial district, with a circuit consisting of seven counties, meant victory for the holder.

Wasn't the political training of the second United States congresswoman gained in this same field of court reporting? Anyway, Harriet Roebuck of Gainesville, Fla., not only received the appointment ten years ago, but has successfully held down the job ever since. She has had time to make friends with her fellow business women as well, for she is vice president of the Florida Federation of Business and Professional Women, which carries with it representation of her state in the national federation.

She has no hesitation about how's and why's. "Love of a hard and difficult task," is her uncompromising prescription.

Harriet Roebuck's first job was as a stenographer to a lawyer, paying $25 per month. It gave her a chance to learn the ins and outs of legal work. She learned. The court reporter appointment followed without intermediate positions, so she must have learned thoroughly.

But courts don't sit continuously. And stenographic work—especially in a university town such as Gainesville—is always in demand. Miss Roebuck has built up a letter shop doing public stenography and multigraphing. In this shop she keeps an assistant busy, and now has also a deputy to assist in the court reporting.

Although she recalls her own past hard work, she still recommends to "Miss Average Girl" a business career in such a town as Gainesville rather than a city.

"There's better opportunity for expression of personality in such a small town," she believes. "There's more consideration shown. One has opportunity for coming in closer contact with people. This enables her to serve better. The girl is likely to find herself just a machine in a big city, though for the exceptional young woman I believe the city might offer greater opportunities in a financial way. For myself, the pleasure of knowing the people whom I serve in these various counties and of being able to call many of them friend is after all the most interesting phase of my work. I do not think that would happen in a great city."

MUMMIES FOUND IN KENTUCKY CAVE

Catacomb Discovered Under Ruins of Old City.

To students of American antiquities it is probably of general knowledge that the city of Lexington, Ky., stands nearly on the site of an ancient town, which, if one may judge by the wide range of its circumvallatory works and the quantity of ground it must have occupied, was one of great extent and magnificence.

It may, however, well be doubted if many of even such students are aware that in the year 1775 there was discovered there a catacomb containing a number of mummies, preserved by the art of embalming to as great a state of perfection as was known among the ancient Egyptians, 1,800 years before the Christian era.

This extraordinary find was made by some of the early settlers, whose curiosity being excited by something unusual in the character of certain large stones, seeming to cover the entrance to a cavern of some sort, removed the same, coming to others whose singular appearance for stones in a natural state caused them to push their investigations further. These obstructions being taken away, the mouth of an apparently deep and gloomy cave was disclosed to their gaze. This proved to be a catacomb, formed in the bowels of the limestone rock, about 15 feet below the surface of the earth.

Having added to their numbers and provided lights, they descended and entered, without further obstruction, a spacious apartment, where they were astounded to find that at the sides and extreme ends were formed niches and compartments occupied by figures representing men.

Their surprise was much greater when, on further research and inquiry, it was found that these figures were actual mummies in the condition before stated. Most unfortunately, the original discoverers were uneducated people and, it being at a period when a bloody and inveterate war was being carried on between the Indians and the whites, supposing, in their ignorance, that these were the remains of some tribe of Indians, a revengeful and vindictive spirit urged them to destruction.—Adventure Magazine.

Believed in Books

Even at an early age Andrew Carnegie believed in books. The impulse to found libraries—so we learn from Mr. A. B. Farquhar in the "First Million the Hardest"—came to him when he was only a messenger boy. Early one morning, says Mr. Farquhar, Carnegie was sent with a dispatch to Mr. Anderson, the steel master of Allegheny, with instructions to wait for an answer. Mr. Anderson had returned late the night before, and the butler said he could not wake him. Young Carnegie walked into the library, and became immersed in a volume on steel making and the tremendous advantages of steel over iron. When Mr. Anderson finally came down with his answer the boy turned and apologized for having taken the book. Mr. Anderson asked whether he was interested in steel. "Oh, yes, it is fascinating to me," Carnegie replied. "Take the book home and read it, and return it when you are through with it," said Mr. Anderson. Carnegie did so, and was told to take another; then Mr. Anderson said he might have access to the library. Carnegie then and there made up his mind that if he ever became wealthy he would found libraries, and give young men the same opportunity that he was enjoying.

Ripening

It is one of the charms of art that it is not to be completely understood. In an age in which so high a value is put upon facts, information, positive knowledge, it is a relief to have still reserved to us a place apart where it is not necessary to know all. . . . The truth of art . . . does not seem to be all known, finished and finally stated, but on the contrary to be ever growing, more rich in significance, more profound in substance, disclosing heaven over heaven and depth under depth. The greatest books share our lives, and grow old with us; we read them over and over, and at each decade it is a new book that we find there, so much has it gained in meaning from experience of life, from ripening judgment, from the change of seasons in the soul.—George E. Woodberry, in "The Heart of Man and Other Papers."

A Poor Substitute

The motorcar was bumping and jolting along the country road at a pace of about four miles an hour. The road seemed unworthy of the name—it was more like a cart-track. There were holes nearly everywhere, and where there weren't holes there were ruts.

The passenger in the back seat began to get very fed up after about an hour spent in traveling in this way. He leaned over the driver and said:

"Are you sure we've taken the best road?"

"I'm sure we're not," replied the driver. "But I'm pretty sure that some one else has, and a nice thing they've left in its place."

Lost His Case

"Gentlemen of the jury," said a blundering barrister in a suit about a lot of hogs, "there were just 36 hogs in that drove; please to remember that fact—36 hogs—just exactly three times as many as there are in the jury box."

That counsel did not win his case.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

MARY GRAHAM BONNER

COPYRIGHT BY WESTERN NEWSPAPER UNION

CITY SNOW

"Don't pay any attention to them," said Madame Snow. She was a beautiful lady wearing the loveliest of snow. Over her snow gown was a long white coat of the snow material and her hat matched. She wore white boots and long white gloves and everywhere as the sun shone down upon her you could see the jewels she wore and with which she decorated her clothes.

She Was a Beautiful Lady.

The Snow children were coming down to the earth as fast as they could.

They were having a beautiful time.

But it seemed the city people did not all want them.

"They are grumbling," said the Snow children. "They were talking about how hard it is to get about in a snowstorm in the city.

"They are saying that we will tie up traffic and that maybe trolleys will stop and that it will be hard to get about.

"They are saying that it makes it hard and awkward for them."

"Don't pay any attention to them," Madame Snow said again.

"I don't notice them. They don't treat me any too polite nor do they treat my family politely and so I am not here to consider or think of them.

"They throw soot about and coal dust and all sorts of things like that and they don't care if they ruin my lovely white frock.

"They don't care in the least!

"And if lots of them have to get out and shovel snow and exercise it will not harm them. It will give plenty of them good work.

"That is not Madame Snow's worry.

"Ah no, I think of the children—the city children. And so I come to the city every once in awhile and bring you too.

"For even though there are grumbles in some spots there is more than enough joy to make up for the grumbles.

"The children come out with their sleds and they are happy as happy can be.

"They build snow men and snow forts and snow houses. They play games in the snow. They play 'house' and 'store' and all kinds of games.

"But above all they coast. On all the hills a little off the main lines they are to be found now. And in the parks and squares they are playing. In the parks particularly they are having such a good time.

"And just because of a few grumbles do you think Madame Snow is going to keep the children from having all this fun? Not for a moment. Not a bit of it!

"And, of course, you all must help her."

"We will, Madame Snow," the Snow children shouted, and their voices were clear and high and lovely.

"Then, too," said Madame Snow, "we bring beauty to the city people. We decorate ugly old roofs and dingy houses, we are very willing to go anywhere to improve it. Nothing is so ugly that we won't try to do something.

"We go to fire escapes and decorate them, and we go to leafless, bare trees and work wonders with them.

"We do lovely things to benches—we make them pretty and you know that jewel makers get ideas from the way we and members of the Icicle family decorate. Oh yes, many a jewel in the way it is set is a copy from the way we do.

"And that pleases us. We like to help in the making of beautiful things.

"Many lace designs, too, are made from crystal and snow patterns we have made!

"The city tonight will be a lovely sight. It may be gloriously inconvenient to some—but even the ugly old light posts will be made to look so pretty. The dullest thing we'll help, too, to look like a bit of Fairyland.

Even the Ugly Old Light Post.

"And that is what we do. We give everything a Fairyland feeling once in a while. We put the whole city into a fancy dress costume of glistening snow.

"But we must not pay any attention to complaints. For above everything else we must think of what we mean to children—and the city children will have their snow. Madame Snow will see to that."

Cause for Surprise

"Why, Charles," said a fond mother, "I'm surprised that you don't want to go to school."

"Huh!" exclaimed Charles. "I guess you'd be a whole lot more surprised if I did want to go."

"All riches are desirable, and we are justified in seeking them all; but the riches of mind and soul give the greatest happiness and add the most to value of life. When it comes to riches of mind and soul can you say you are a millionaire? To be such a millionaire would certainly be worth while, and here we find a new ambition."

SIMPLE DISHES

A wholesome dessert which is good for the children is:

Butterscotch Pudding. — Melt one cupful of brown sugar and two tablespoonfuls of butter and cook until melted and brown; be careful not to burn. Pour over the mixture two cupfuls of hot milk and simmer ten minutes until all is dissolved. Meanwhile soak an inch-slice of bread in cold water until soft and press out all the water and crumble into bits. Pour the milk, sugar and butter mixture over the bread and beat in the yolks of two eggs, a little salt and a small teaspoonful of vanilla. Pour into a buttered baking dish and bake in a pan of water twenty-five minutes. Beat the whites of the eggs stiff, add two tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar, the juice of half a lemon and beat again. Spread over the pudding and brown in a moderate oven.

Lemon Cheese Cakes.—For the filling for five individual pies, take one egg, three tablespoonfuls of sugar, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of salt, the grated rind and a tablespoonful of lemon juice, one-fourth of a cupful of cake crumbs. Beat the yolk of an egg, add the sugar, salt, lemon juice and rind with the crumbs, mix well, fold in the beaten white of the egg which has been beaten stiff and turn into pastry-lined patty tins. Bake until the filling is set.

Tapioca and Date Sponge.—Cook one-third of a cupful of tapioca in a pint of boiling water slightly salted. When the tapioca is transparent, stir in one-half pound of dates which have been washed and pits removed, add one-fourth of a cupful of sugar and the juice of a large lemon. Beat the whites of two eggs very light and fold in the tapioca mixture. Cover and let stand on the back of the range until ready to serve. Serve with sugar and cream.

Nellie Maxwell

Offered Odd Security

Roy Chapman Andrews, of the Asiatic expedition in China, overdrew the expedition's account with the American Banking company at Peking. When the bank asked for more security Andrews offered two dinosaur eggs 10,000,000 years old. The banker refused to consider the eggs as collateral and it was necessary to sell the American-made automobiles, which brought half the original cost despite the fact that they had traveled 6,000 miles over the camel trails of northern China.

Ship Built on Knoll

People looking at the top of a certain knoll at Oakland, Cal., rub their eyes and take another look, for there stands the good ship Mer Tranquil which Fred A. Heroux has built. He has injected all the details of a regular, honest-to-goodness seagoing craft except that the bottom will be an immovable base of concrete. The eye of a true mariner will not be much offended, however, because the concrete will be hidden in four feet of water in a tank surrounding the vessel.

Protecting Her

The minister of a certain church called upon a woman, a member of his congregation, and, finding no one at home, slipped a card through a letter-box, after scribbling upon it the words, "Sorry to find you out." When the woman returned home, Mary, the maid, met her at the door and presented the card with a whisper, "Here, mum, I took charge of this. It would never do for the master to know the minister's found you out."

A Fast Trip

Having traveled 3,000 miles to England, a New York woman left that country after a sojourn of a few minutes. No sooner was her ship docked at Southampton than she rushed ashore, hailed a taxi, sped to another part of the docks, and caught a steamship for Cape Town a few minutes before its departure on a 6,000-mile trip.

Truth Stranger Than Fiction

Ten thousand dollars a month or more is the measure of other people's losses due to their own carelessness in sending parcels through the mails. So estimates F. H. Bushby of the Dead Letter Division of the post office who is shown in the accompanying illustration examining a recent "dead letter" arrival of high grade watches and precious stones.

A fortune that has gone astray passes through Mr. Bushby's hands every year. Watches, diamonds, rings, pins, coins, stamps, silverware, gold—all these and other valuable commodities reach him eventually when Uncle Sam's post office force of 300,000 can find neither addressee nor sender. Queer things drift into his storeroom. One, a traveling bag of rich appearance, contained a set of burglar's tools, skeleton keys, several pistols, and a finely made sawed-off shotgun.

A collapsible blackjack that unlimbers for an 18-inch reach as it finds its mark; a cute little ladies' penknife that spits out a pistol shot when the right blade is pressed (undoubtedly of recent make); an aerial torpedo; and contraband of opium, morphine and other drugs—all these have come to him within the past few months. These forbidden things, of course, will not be sold; but everything else will go under the hammer within a few weeks to the highest bidder at public auction.

Anybody but a postal employee can bid on the articles, as many or as few as are wanted. Of all things he handles, however, Mr. Bushby sells shoes most easily and quickly. They need not be new. Worn soles and frayed uppers are replaced by the purchaser, but the demand, nevertheless, is great.

Getting Skinnier Every Day

Something Must be Done, and Done Darn Quick, Too.

Tens of thousands of thin, run-down men—yes, and women, too—are getting discouraged—are giving up all hope of ever being able to take on flesh and look healthy and strong.

All such people can stop worrying and start to smile right now for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets, which any druggist will tell you all about, is putting flesh on hosts of skinny folks every day.

One woman, tired, weak and discouraged, put on 15 pounds in five weeks and feels fine.

We all know that Cod Liver Oil is full of flesh producing vitamines, but many people can't take it because of its horrible smell and fishy taste, and because it often upsets the stomach.

McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets are as easy to take as candy, and if any thin person don't gain at least 5 pounds in 30 days your druggist will give you your money back—and only 50 cents a box. Ask any live pharmacist anywhere.

Get McCoy's, the original and genuine Cod Liver Oil Tablet.

Loosen Up That Cold With Musterole

Have Musterole handy when a cold starts. It has all of the advantages of grandmother's mustard plaster WITHOUT the blister. You just apply it with the fingers. First you feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then comes a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Made of pure oil of mustard and other simple ingredients, Musterole is recommended by many nurses and doctors. Try Musterole for bronchitis, sore throat, stiff neck, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, croup, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pains and aches of the back or joints, sore muscles, sprains, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds of the chest. It may prevent pneumonia and "flu."

Advertising the Mountain Resorts

The March Issue of The Bulletin, Issued by the Catskill-Shawangunk Mountain Association, Contains Report of Publicity Work of 1923.

In the March issue of the Bulletin published each month by C. H. Peters, manager of the Catskill-Shawangunk Mountain Association, there is an interesting report made by him of the publicity work done during 1923, and of the plans for advertising this summer resort region the coming season. The report follows:

Publicity.

The Association has distributed through various agencies such as Automobile Clubs, Travel Information Bureaus, Tourist Agencies, Express and Railway offices, Chambers of Commerce, Department Stores, Clubs and Hotels, 22,500 maps and travel guides. The number of these distributing agencies at this time is 164. We devote a great deal of attention to this particular branch of publicity as it places intimate information of our region directly in the hands of a highly desirable class. This should be developed to a much greater extent. Other forms of publicity were newspaper and magazine stories, one in particular placed in the Foster Travel Magazine, a publication of wide circulation which only touches the high spots in America's pleasure resorts, gave our region two and a half pages with four very fine illustrations. This is undoubtedly the best piece of publicity secured for the Catskill-Shawangunk Mountains in some time. The story itself was written by Edward Hungerford. The newspaper publicity is well known and needs little mention here.

Photographs of Kingston's historic Senate House were furnished to the Boston Herald and published in the rotogravure section of that paper in a Sunday edition.

Photographs were also furnished to illustrate magazine articles on the historic Wallkill Valley and to Brown Brothers, professional illustrators, who agreed to give each picture the proper title when using it. A dozen pictures were furnished J. Reubens, post card publisher, nearly all of which are now for sale in post card racks.

Newspaper Advertising.

Through the efforts of this organization, Catskill Mountain tours using one full page with a large map of the region in the center were run five times in Sunday editions of the Knickerbocker Press, New York Times, 60 lines; New York Tribune, 180 lines; New York Herald, 180; New York World, 180; New York World Summer Resort Number, 60; New York World, 64; New York Evening Post, 300 lines.

Through the courtesy of the New York Evening Post the literature of the Catskill-Shawangunk Association was delivered from the New York Evening Post booth at the International Travel Show. This cooperation on behalf of the newspaper helped us to place the Catskill Mountain region in this great exhibit and the courtesy was duly acknowledged by the manager of this organization.

1923 Booklet.

This edition consisted of 10,000 booklets of 20 pages and cover. The carriers, including the ferry companies, were each given advertising space on the covers of this publication. It is proved to be a useful publication listing the members, stating their business and the demand completely exhausted the edition. An exhibition of photographs and maps of the region was given in Washington, D. C., in the "Ask Mr. Foster Office."

By following closely each suggestion and request the Association has been able to make itself useful and helpful to the community in general by forming committees and working on committees in an effort to secure better state roads, railroad, telephone and telegraph service, bus service, etc. It has also found on many occasions special work to do in the region, the Phoenicia bridge disaster being one occasion.

Program For The Coming Year.

The program for the coming year is to keep the various distributing outlets supplied, placing Catskill-Shawangunk Mountain literature in the hands of as many people, and as good a class of people as is possible. The past two years have proven that direct advertising reaches a highly desirable class of visitors and tourists, to continue the newspaper and magazine publicity and establish additional information bureaus and develop the main trails passing through our region. We have on our list 142 additional automobile clubs who maintain touring bureaus who could not be served with maps and guides last year. This list of clubs are all within easy touring distances of the Catskill-Shawangunk Mountains and a special effort will be made by this organization to serve these clubs with literature during the coming year. Also over 900 country clubs within the same radius should be supplied with at least a small amount of literature describing our region. This distributing of literature should be many times as great as it is, at the present with positive outleis of the highest character eager to work with us. It is only necessary to secure the necessary printed matter to put over one of the largest and best publicity drives any region has ever had.

New Map And Booklet.

As the entire edition of travel maps and guide books are exhausted it will be necessary to publish both map and booklet this year. The Association is working on a new booklet containing a corrected reproduction of the travel maps which will fold neatly in the front cover, to be printed on good half tone paper and illustrated with full page, half tone cuts of the beauty spots and places of interest. Such a piece of literature will be distributed through the established channels. It will contain about 40 pages. Several of these pages are already contracted for on a paid advertising basis. The engineers are now at work on the map and it should be ready for distribution about the 1st of May.

Highways And Bridges.

The general policy of following up each and every suggestion and putting forth every effort for better highways is a fundamental part of this organization and will be given every possible attention.

How to Fill Out Bonus Application

through the mail. No checks will be delivered from this office.

The word "soldier" used in connection with this bonus shall mean any male or female who was enlisted, inducted, warranted or commissioned in the military or naval service of the United States in the World War and who is eligible to receive a bonus.

Every person, male or female, who was enlisted, inducted, warranted or commissioned and who served in active duty in the army, navy, marine or nurse corps of the United States at any time between the sixth day of April 1917, and the 11th day of November, 1918, and who at time of entereing such service was a resident of the state of New York, and who was honorably separated or discharged from such service or who is still in active service, or has been retired, or has been furloughed to reserve, is entitled to a bonus.

No person shall be entitled to such bonus who being in the military or naval service of the United States subsequent to the 6th day of April, 1917, refused on conscientious, political or other grounds, to subject himself to military discipline or to render unqualified service.

If the soldier has been judicially declared incompetent, the sum or allowance to which he is entitled can only be paid to the duly appointed committee of such incompetent soldier.

In case of lost discharge, write to the Adjutant General of the Army, Washington, D. C., requesting a "certificate in lieu of lost discharge" or if in the navy, request a similar certificate from the Bureau of Navigation, Washington, D. C., or if in the marine corps, request a similar certificate from the U. S. Marine Corps Headquarters, Washington, D. C.

No agent, attorney or other person shall demand, be entitled to or receive any compensation for his service in prosecuting any claim for any bonus under this act.

Any pledge, mortgage, sale, assignment or transfer of any right, claim or interest in any bonus, heretofore made, shall be void and of no effect, except that assignments to any corporation heretofore formed solely for aiding disabled or incapacitated veterans shall be valid.

The bonus committee reiterates the statement made two weeks ago that the bonus will be paid in a lump sum, and not in monthly installments as has been erroneously published in some parts of the state. The commission also repeats its declaration that the bonus will be paid in the manner provided by the finance law for the discharge of all state obligations, that is, it will be paid in the regular manner upon warrant of the comptroller and checks will be mailed directly from the commission's office to the claimant. Checks will not be given out nor bonuses paid in any other way except by mail as described above. The commission desires also to correct the report that it is necessary for the ex-service men to apply to the various county clerks for the certification of their discharge papers. Any notary public, commissioner of deeds or justice of the peace is qualified to certify to the papers.

Soldiers who enlisted from New York state who are now residing out of New York state should make application direct to the New York State Bonus Commission, 89 Central avenue, Albany, New York, and state the branch of service in which they served.

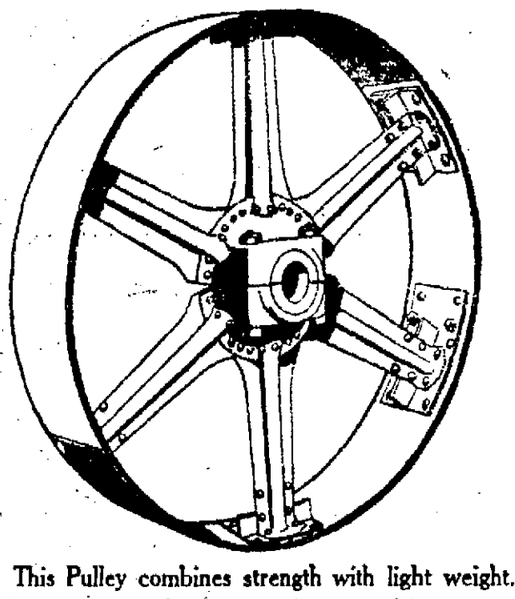
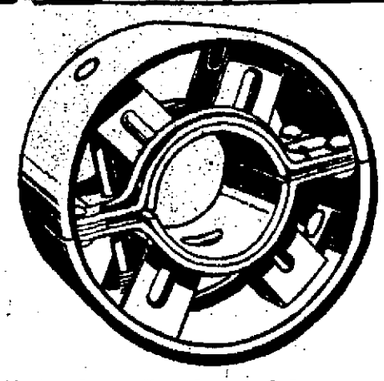
DODGE MEANS POWER SAVINGS



This Pulley combines strength with light weight. It is an economical transmitter because of its grooveless oval crown which affords belt contact over the entire face, reduces slippage and permits operation of belts under low tension.



The National supplies the need for a small steel pulley of ample strength and correct balance. This pulley measures up to the high quality set by Dodge for every product bearing their name.

Friction Steals Money

Friction silently yet steadily steals thousands of dollars' worth of power that should go to the machines of production in American industrial plants each year.

Slipping Belts Mean a Great Loss

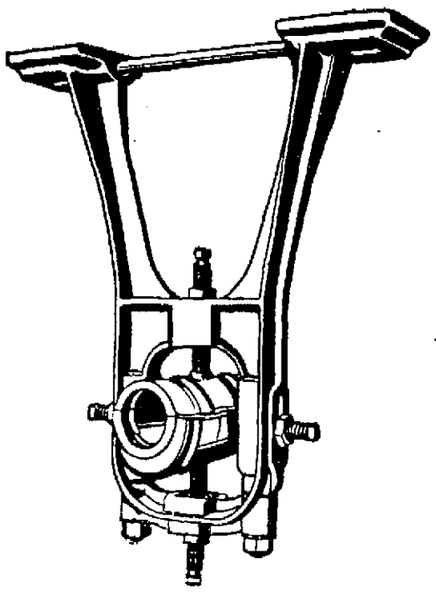
A slipping belt which the mill wright tightens so that it will carry the load, followed by hot bearings and delay are the direct evidence that friction is stealing from you. High power costs with corresponding high overhead on your balance sheet is its written history. By far the greater part of this excessive loss is due to incorrectly designed and poorly built transmission units.

We Carry a Complete Line

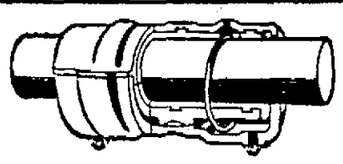
We carry a complete stock of Keystone Steel Pulleys, National Steel and Keystone Hangers built by Dodge. For nearly half a century Dodge has been building transmission units embodying correct designing and quality workmanship. Dodge products are the recognized transmission standard in thousands of the world's largest shops.

Dodge Equipment

Dodge equipment is saving power in thousands of industrial plants, it will do the same for you. When in need of a pulley or other transmission unit call us, or let us show you why the Keystone Steel Pulley with the oval crown is the ideal pulley.



The Keystone hanger embodies all of the desirable features a shaft hanger should have. Correct distribution of metals insures strength without excessive weight. Four point adjustment is provided. Broad feet provided with slotted holes provide adjustment and insure rigidity.



The Keystone ring oiling bearing provides positive and uniform lubrication and also a bearing surface five times the diameter of the shaft, thereby reducing the pressure per square inch and insures uniform distribution of oil to the shaft. Refilling once every six months is the only attention required.

Red Sox After Rube Forsythe

The Poughkeepsie Star and Enterprise states that the Poughkeepsie Red Sox have not given up all hope of landing Rube Forsythe. The Poughkeepsie paper says it was learned that Rube received $400 a month last year from the Colonials while Culloton was getting close to $450 a month. When Rube steps on the diamond this season he will be paid $500 a month probably the highest money paid to a Hudson valley pitcher in years, according to the Poughkeepsie sport writer.

Opera 323 Years Ago

The first opera ever performed publicly was Jacopo Peri's "Eurydice." The original performance took place 323 years ago at the festivities which marked the marriage of Maria de Medici with Henry IV of France. Since then "Eurydice" has never been seen except once at Milan.

With Giulio Casocini and Emilio del Cavalleri, Jacopo Peri is regarded as the discoverer of modern recitative. He is also the father of opera, which became possible once recitative was known.

In 1597 he himself appeared in the first work of the kind which he had composed. It was called "Diane." It was performed privately, and no trace of it survives. "Eurydice" was his second effort.—Detroit News.

Moral Legislation

You can get men to vote to reform others but you can't draw them into a knockdown and dragout fight to do it. 'Tis what ails all "moral" legislation.

ASK MOTORISTS TO PAY FOR HIGHWAYS

(By ROY D. CHAPIN, Chairman Highways Committee, National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.)

Highway engineers of the United States have carried their task forward to a point where the public can now obtain a visual demonstration of results in every state in the Union. At the end of 1918 there were 12.5 miles of completed federal aid projects in the country. Since then projects amounting to 29,772 miles have been completed, 15,818 miles are under construction, and an additional 6,000 miles have been approved for construction.

Virtually all of this work has been done on those main highways which constitute the selected federal aid system of 7 per cent of the highways of the country, and yet the funds so expended from both federal and state sources are less than one-half of annual expenditures made for rural highway purposes.

The other funds have been expended, first, under state jurisdiction on the secondary roads, and, second, under county and local supervision, on the county and purely local roads.

The net result is that as we swing into 1924 there are approximately 480,000 miles of highways in the United States on which there has been some degree of improvement from those of sand-clay up to the heaviest and most durable roads known to modern engineering. The total mileage of all types of roads in the country is 2,941,294.

This achievement, which gives us a mileage of improved roads almost four times as great as all of the roads in the United Kingdom, has been attained just in time to take care of the swelling army of motor car drivers and it will be only by a continuation of the present program for the next ten years that we can finally arrive at a completed system approximating the needs of highway traffic.

The principal problem to the student of highway transport is that of how an undertaking of this size is to be financed, requiring as it does, and will for a decade, an annual appropriation of at least $1,000,000,000 from national, state and local sources.

The answer has been obtained, in part, through conferences between officials of the American Association of State Highway Officials, the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, the Investment Bankers of America and the bureau of public roads.

The chief points were that all who benefit from highway construction should join in paying for them, that maintenance of the interstate and state systems is justifiably chargeable against the motor user, that highway expenditures should be based upon budgets and should not be out of line with other public needs, and finally that depending upon the comparative stage of the highway program, long term bond issues should be voted to provide for immediate construction of the principal systems which must inevitably cost the public less to build and maintain than to go without.

Miles of Paved Streets in American Cities Big

If the paved streets of 290 leading American cities—which in the first national census of city paving ever made in this country have reported officially their paving yardages last year to the Asphalt association in New York—were merged in a single great highway eighteen feet wide that highway would more than twice encircle the globe. The survey, the results of which have just been announced, shows that, with an average of eighteen feet of width, there are 56,974.8 miles of paved streets in American cities of 10,000 or more population. This mileage by far exceeds that of almost every other country in the world.

Benefits of Dragging

What a difference it makes in frozen roads if they are dragged before the cold wave comes! It is evident in some of our own highways here in the county, says the Rochester (Ind.) Sentinel. Some that were dragged during the recent rains are now regular boulevards. Others that were not are full of ruts and while passable, practically tear a car to pieces. The money spent in dragging those roads has paid the taxpayers many times over on wear and tear on their vehicles.

Largest Uncut Stone

What is held to be the largest uncut precious stone in the world is a flawless black opal, discovered in this country and now said to be in the office of a government official in Washington. The gem contains approximately twenty-one cubic inches, weighs 2,572,332 karats and is valued by the owners at $250,000. The colors are translucent blues and greens with a little red. The famous Viennese opals which was without equal until the American specimen was found, weighs 1,658,937 karats, but has a number of flaws.

Commercial Honesty

"No," said the old man sternly. "I will not do it. Never have I sold anything by false representation, and I will not begin now." For a moment he was silent, and the clerk who stood before him could see that the better nature of his employer was fighting strongly for the right. "No," said the old man again, "I will not do it. It is an inferior grade of shoe, and I will never pass it off as anything better. Mark it 'A Shoe Fit for a Queen,' and put it in the window. A queen does not have to do much walking."

Little Nails

Cloves come from the Indies and take their name from the Latin clauvis, meaning a "nail."

One Standard of Value

Hudson Valley League Organized

At Poughkeepsie Sunday—Studebakers and Chevrolets of This City Sign With Six Other Teams—Palen Elected President.

Says the Poughkeepsie Eagle-News:

The Hudson Valley Baseball League was organized Sunday afternoon at a meeting of all the managers who have entered the league. Eight teams were represented and there are prospects of two other teams signing up before the league entries are closed May 1.

Mike Palen was unanimously elected president. Elmer Steele and Art Fleet were offered the office of vice-president but both declined. James Kerr, secretary of the Knights of Columbus, Charles Leroy of Wappingers Falls, Ed Lester of Rhinecliff and John Baulkeroy of East Kingston were suggested for the office and one of these men will be chosen at the next meeting. Art Plog was unanimously elected secretary, a post he held last year. Grover Schatz was chosen treasurer but this is subject to his acceptance. Mr. Schatz's reputation and interest in sports, makes him one fo the best choices for this office.

In line with the general good tone that is to distinguish the games in this league, it was decided to create an Arbitrary Board, composed of one member for each team in the league. The members chosen cannot be connected actively with the team he represents. The members that have been chosen thus far and their teams are as follows: Peter J. McManus, Milton; Ben Wheeler, Stanfordville; Bill Kearns, Rhinecliff; Ed. W. Wilson, Magyar A. C., Poughkeepsie; Edward Fay, Studebakers, East Kingston. The Chevrolets, the Mohicans and the Dutchess Bleachery of Wappingers Falls, have still to choose their members.

Art Fleet, promoter of the Valley League proposition, has received a letter from George Tyson, manager of the Independents of Saugerties, and Tyson has promised to be present at the next meeting. New Paltz and Millbrook still are not decided but these managers should be heard from next Sunday.

A schedule committee was chosen composed of Art Fleet, M. Conroy of Milton and Jim Sidell of Wappingers Falls.

It was decided after much discussion that each manager should post a sum of $50 to insure the presence of the teams for the scheduled games. If a team does not show up for a game, $25 will be given to the other team and the team that deserves the penalty will have to post $25 more with the treasurer before that team plays another game. In case of disputes that may arise from this arrangement, the matter of settlement will be turned over to the arbitration board.

The next meeting will be held Sunday afternoon at Columbus Institute. President Palen will preside and the more detailed work of schedules and rules will be taken up.

The managers present at Sunday's meeting were: Jim Sidell, Dutchess Bleachery, Wappingers Falls; M. Conroy, Milton; Clarence Wheeler, Rhinecliff; Ducky Ostrom, Stanfordville; Joe Tackash, Maygar, A. C.; William McNally, Studebakers of Kingston; Joe Brown of the Chevrolets of Kingston; and Art Fleet of the Mohicans of Poughkeepsie.

Funniest Situation on Football Field

When recently asked what he believed to be the funniest situation he had ever observed on a football field, Coach J. W. Wilce of Ohio State told this one:

"One summer I had several ambitious football coaches in my course of physical education. In a demonstration of the 'quick kick' on the field, one punter's foot slipped and landed squarely on the seat of a man who was in position to interfere for the kicker. That was what I call a real 'quick kick' in the pants."

GREAT PITCHERS OF PAST FORTY YEARS

Long List Is Blue-Penciled Down to Cy Young.

A writer in a magazine devoted to baseball has made a careful estimate of the comparative merits of the best-known pitchers of the last forty years, and after measuring their records and their prowess, and subjecting their efficiency to many tests, has blue-penciled the long list down to one shining name—the name of Denton Tecumseh Young, our own Cy Young, who is pronounced by this authority the greatest pitcher that ever lived, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

It would have been interesting if this investigator had carried his comparisons back to the pitchers in the still earlier days. There were giants, then, too, although possibly not in the Cy Young class. There were pitchers who pitched all through the season, game after game. There were pitchers who had peculiar types of efficiency that were quite as strongly developed as those of the modern hurlers. Here are the names of a few of the early day pitchers, all players of note:

Asa Bfainard of the original "Red Stockings," who went through an entire season without losing a game.

George Zettlein, called "The Charmer," who had a remarkable command over the sphere.

Alphonso Martin, "Phonny Martin," who was famous for his slow ball, his drops and his twisters.

Amos Cummings, who is believed to be the first professional pitcher who used a curve ball.

Riner Wolters, "the long Jerseyman," who pitched for the Cleveland "Forest Citys" in 1872.

A. G. Pratt, "Al Pratt," another Cleveland pitcher, who in 1871 was regarded as having the swiftest delivery in the profession.

Charlie Pabor, the first noted left-handed pitcher, who helped to establish the fame of the noted Unions of Morrisania.

Then there were Spalding of the Bostons, and McBride of the Athletics, steady and brainy pitchers who left admirable records.

There were others in the early days whose pitching efficiency was widely recognized, but those named above were at one time the best known.

Best Weight Thrower

Not since the days of the prime of Pat Ryan and McDonald, has there been such a hammer thrower as Fred Tootell of Bowdoin college, Maine. He holds the intercollegiate record with a cast of 181 feet 6½ inches. With a little more seasoning and good training, which he is now receiving, he will be right on top for the Olympics at Paris this summer.

5-YEAR-OLD VIOLINIST THRILLS BIG AUDIENCE

Little Chester Merritt at Master School Recital.

A little child, a mere slip of lad, with a fiddle tucked under his chin and a bow his own length clutched in a pudgy hand, enticed the immortal strains of "America" from his miniature violin, while the whole audience that thronged the music hall of the Academy of Music, Brooklyn, Sunday evening, to attend the pupils' violin recital, given by the Italian Master School of Violin Instruction of which D. A. Casalenovo is master instructor, of 524 53rd street, Brooklyn, N. Y., sat rapt and thrilled at the strange sight. The diminutive artist was Chester Merritt, youngest pupil of the school, who has achieved the ambition of his youthful career—to play the national anthem—despite the fact that he has taken but six lessons from Professor Casalenovo. The child retired amidst a storm of applause that did not subside for several minutes.

Chester lives at 4219 7th avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Merritt, and grandson of John Erne of 160 Highland avenue, Kingston.
